

Federal Governments Big Plans for Long Jetty

With Long Jetty, along side Gosford to receive the NBN (National Broadband) Rollout on the Coast, I am wondering what other upgrades has the Government secretly in store for the suburb and the electorate of The Entrance.

Politically The Central Coast and Long Jetty has an interesting history and in 1992 Long Jetty was the site where Premier Nick Greiner narrowly lost his NSW Liberal Government in a nail biting count back of votes in a Hung Parliament By election.

In another era of minority Governments Long Jetty has now joined only 28 other sites nationally to receive this major infrastructure spend in 2012.

With the benefits of the NBN rollout for schools and business often extolled one wonders what the criteria selection is for receiving this major infrastructure spend.

Hopefully the Federal Government has recognised what the locals already know and that is Long Jetty offers fantastic Coastal lifestyle with proximity to beaches, waterways, reserves and offers affordable Coastal living.

However employment is an ongoing issue and no doubt this was an important consideration in selecting Long Jetty's participation.

With the NBN rollout we now hopefully attract further employment opportunities into what is a great lifestyle location. Surely the opportunity to conduct e-commerce and teleworking applications whilst living in a pleasant coastal environment will be a major attraction to those fed up with congested city living.

Now if we could only get $$$ for improved street scape and water quality for our lakes !
